       Honey (USA).

2. Reports
   (a) Opening Speech
       The President took the opportunity to update Council on the progress that has been made in World Sailing.

There are a number of important priorities that the President has focused on since the last meeting.

The President expressed his delight that Andy Hunt, the new CEO had joined World Sailing and advised they were working extremely well together.

It had been a long journey to find the right person to fill this crucial position - but the President felt with Andy the wait had certainly been worthwhile. There is a real sense of momentum as a result of his appointment and his positive actions and that he is a great asset to World Sailing and our sport.

One of the areas that the CEO and the President have worked on together is the development of proposals to further improve the governance of World Sailing. There are a number of important reasons why this matters.

This is a time when the international media and public spotlight has been so concentrated on world sport and the way it is run and governed. At the same time, the IOC and the Association of Summer Olympic International Federations are both clear that change and progress are needed in this area. The President advised that part of his job as World Sailing President, is to ensure that we not just meet new governance standards, but exceed them.

The President advised that World Sailing’s goal is to become a benchmark for International Federations.

The MNAs, Council Members and Committee Chairs have all been consulted on the proposals and the EGM will vote on them the following day.

If these measures are passed, they will enable World Sailing to become more professional, efficient, effective and better able to drive the global growth of Sailing in all its forms.

Good progress has been made in other important areas - including planning around a new Sailing World Cup strategy and ensuring Para Sailing returns to the Paralympic Games in 2024.

The President advised that we have also made good progress over the last few years in building up the Emerging Nations Program and more than doubled our investment - which has been made possible due to our sponsors.

And as we look to the future, the President is confident that we can grow our commercial resources and provide even greater support to all our MNAs.

The President announced that he was coming to the end of his first term as World Sailing President and that much had been achieved in this time - but he has a sense of ‘unfinished business’.

The President believes that in the years ahead World Sailing has both new challenges and new opportunities and there is much more to do to ensure that Sailing continues to grow and prosper around the world therefore the President confirmed his intention to stand for a second, and final, term as World Sailing President.

The President has 3 main priorities:

- Better Governance
- Olympic and Paralympic development
- and the Sailing World Cup.

The President wants to ensure that the challenges that lie ahead in each of these areas are sailed safely and that the many significant opportunities to grow our sport, at every level, are secured.

On governance, the President said it was important to remember that the proposals that the World Sailing Council and EGM will vote on are just the start of a longer term modernization process that we need.

The vote at Council and the EGM is not the end of the journey – it is the start of a new one that if World Sailing gets this right it will lead to a more professional and dynamic World Sailing organization.

On Olympic matters, the President advised that we all need to be mindful of the IOC’s Agenda 2020 strategy and its appetite to introduce more modern, youthful sports and events to the Games. It is likely that five new events will be at the 2020 Tokyo Games including some of the newer ‘activity’ sports. The President advised that we are in a changing Olympic world and we need to be able to react to this. Sailing has a very strong Olympic tradition and we are blessed as one of the Olympic sports that can create incredible backdrops for broadcasters and viewers.

This will put us in a strong position to protect our Olympic status, and be very positive as we look to the future.

However, the President said we must work together – and in full consultation - we need to be creative in this new Olympic era, be willing to move with the times and embrace change and innovation. And it is this mindset that will underpin his second term if he is re-elected as President.

The President wants to see the sport reinstated into the 2024 Paralympic Games.

The President and CEO had had a very good meeting recently with the International Paralympic Committee CEO where they outlined proposals to ensure the growth of Para Sailing. World Sailing and the President’s commitment to see the sport return to the Paralympic Games and work with the IPC to ensure this happens for 2024 was stressed.

This goal will be a key focus for the President in his second term and he is very confident it can be delivered.

Getting the Sailing World Cup right and in place is also a top priority for the President.

Together, World Sailing has been developing a strategy that will create a new flagship product in order to meet the many needs and views of our diverse Sailing family but there has to be the right balance. This is a big opportunity which has a real potential to boost World Sailing’s global profile, increase participation in Sailing and bring new fans to our sport. This should be done in partnership with sponsors and broadcasters and we must also be open to the ideas of new host cities.

The President also expressed the need to take a look at other opportunities including Offshore Sailing – which is an important area of our sport and one of great potential.

As the President looks ahead he is encouraged and optimistic as we aim to protect and grow our sport and enter a new era with confidence and a willingness to be creative and develop.

It is this vision of growth, modernisation and innovation, while respecting our sport’s great traditions that the President believes he can deliver if he is honoured to serve as World Sailing President for a final term.

In closing, the President thanked his fellow Executive Members for their tremendous work and the staff for their important contribution.

(b) Introduction by the CEO

Presentations were given based on the initial priorities the CEO had identified which included discrimination, strategic initiatives including governance, Sailing World Cup, commercial, communications and Para sailing.

The focus on the remainder of 2016 will include the planning and delivery of the Rio Olympic and Paralympic Games, delivery of the remaining 2016 Sailing World Cup events, refining and implementing Sailing World Cup 2017-2024 strategy, executing the new commercial strategy, modernising the structure of the organisation, organising the Annual Conference and developing a sustainability strategy.

The new Vision & Mission for World Sailing was presented which would now undergo consumer research before being launched later in 2016.

The CEO expressed thanks to Australia and New Zealand for stepping in as the venue for the 2016 Sailing World Cup Final and Youth Worlds.

(c) Training and Development Presentation

Vice President Nazli Imre gave a presentation on the Training and Development initiatives over the past 4 years and outlined the focus for the future.

(d) IOC Agenda 2020 – Kit McConnell, IOC Sports Director

The CEO passed on Kit McConnell’s apologies for not being present at the Council meeting and introduced a video interview between him and the IOC Sports Director, Kit McConnell which highlighted the importance of the IOC Agenda 2020.

(e) World Sailing Foundation

Vice President Scott Perry outlined the set up of the World Sailing Foundation which has been established to support the Emerging Nations Programme, youth sailing and the environment.

3. Governance

(a) Annual Report 2015

Once the Statutory Accounts had been finalised the Annual Report 2015 will be circulated to the members.

(b) Governance Review

The CEO gave a presentation on Governance Review.

(c) World Sailing Discrimination Policy

The CEO gave a presentation on the World Sailing Discrimination Policy.

4. Events

(a) 2016 Olympic Sailing Competition

A video was shown by World Sailing Head of Competitions on the Rio 2016 progress. Two successful test events have been held and qualification events completed with 63 nations qualified. Challenges lie with logistics, equipment and preparation for the Paralympic Games. Venue construction in Rio is complete. Field of play has 7 course areas. The pipe belt has been completed to improve water pollution with contingency planning and special monitoring on the field of play areas. World Sailing are proactive with OBS and Swiss Timing with final tests being carried out on cameras and finalising live TV schedule. Swiss Timing will track all live races. Sailing in an iconic venue is an ideal opportunity to showcase our sport and reach a wide audience, increase World Sailing resources, Olympic news service and social media. 4000 Sailing tickets are available for sale every day and 70% of daily tickets are already sold.

i) Water Pollution Update

Dr Neb Niikolic gave an updated presentation on the Water Pollution issues in Rio.

(b) Sailing World Cup 2017

The Sailing World Cup was established in 2008 with a vision to establish an annual ‘Olympic Games standard’ series of sailing regattas concluding in a final at which SWC champions in all 10 Olympic events are crowned. There is a need to review the methodology; research and identify any weaknesses in the current product and develop a new concept. A review of the calendar, venues, qualifications, quotas, media and sponsorship were also being undertaken. Future goals include defining an elite model, becoming an Olympic Games qualifier and balancing sport with entertainment.
