*The Position currently listed in Regulation 23.1.4 is actually a Provisional list designed to be decided finally in the May 2011 ISAF Mid Year meeting. The Current position of the Olympic Events and equipment are the events and equipment to be used in the 2012 Olympic Games.

Reasons
1. Gender
• This submission supports ISAF’s strategy of gender equality, matched pairs of events and clear equipment pathways.
• This submission has a balanced gender ratio for a “full team” of 8 Male / 8 Female athletes.
• The submission increases the number of events available for participation by women to 5 events.
• This submission includes “mixed sailing”. Selecting the multihull for a mixed crew reflects the current status in many classes of multihull.

2. Events
• The submission offers diversity in terms of weight and size of the athlete.
• The submission represents the diversity of skills required in sailing as practiced around the world. The equipment can readily be sailed by sailors in developing nations, with a wide range of sailing skills to showcase our sport.

3. Continuity and Evolution
• The proposal provides balance between continuity and evolution with new events/equipment.
• Protecting the investment made by MNAs is important for the success of Olympic Sailing, particularly as it relates to maintaining universality.

4. Universality
• The proposal reflects the events and equipment already in use around the world. It also reflects the events and equipment with high participation.
• The equipment is accessible around the world and available to all developing countries.

6. Media Appeal
• The submission offers the best mix of events and equipment for guaranteed media appeal.
• Match racing is easiest to understand and narrate for a worldwide audience and permits one on one competition that is easy to exploit for mass appeal.
• The multihull provides dramatic speeds and yet provides for tactical racing, particularly on downwind legs.
• The possibility of kite boarding presents a whole new opportunity for attracting youthful audiences and will make for dramatic viewing.
• The Star has the established and best known heroes of our sport for increased dramatic personal interest stories and drama from competition with the challenging talent.

The events and equipment represent sailing in all its disciplines allowing identification and interest from our established base of sailors worldwide.
