About

ISAF Sailing World Cup Miami, presented by Sunbrella, is a mainstay regatta on the winter circuit for sailors who are campaigning for Rio 2016. Raced on the waters of Biscayne Bay the regatta was founded in 1990 as part of the ‘Can-Am’ series that promoted sailing during the winter months for Canadian and American Olympic hopefuls. As the regatta evolved it now features prominently on Olympic sailors schedules.

Venue

Regatta Headquarters are located at the US SAILING Center Miami, an official Olympic training center, in Coconut Grove, Miami. Event organizers have partnered with the city of Miami to provide world-class venues for competition. Additional hosts for the event include Coral Reef Yacht Club, Key Biscayne Yacht Club, Coconut Grove Sailing Club, Miami Rowing Club and Shake-a-Leg-Miami. These sailing organizations host classes onshore, as well as help run the on-the-water racing. The Coral Reef Yacht Club also hosts the Opening and Closing Ceremonies.

Weather

Biscayne Bay is one of the great sailing venues in the world and offers a subtropical climate in the North American winter. ISAF Sailing World Cup Miami utilises an eight mile portion of the bay with a modest tidal range. The sea breeze typically arrives in late morning or early afternoon and builds until late afternoon. The trade winds can provide a reliable breeze from the north east to the south east.

Media Information

Located at Coral Reef Yacht Club, the media centre is suitably equipped to cater for the international media. Daily news releases and results will be distributed via email and daily racing images will be captured digitally (both low-res and high-res) by official event photographers and will be available online.

About

Sixty Finn and 5.5m sailors from 12 nations competed at the first regatta held in Hyères in 1968. The early 1970s saw the regatta increase in size with 240 sailors from 16 nations compete, although most were Europeans. By the 1980s the regatta had evolved into a global affair.

ISAF Sailing World Cup Hyères is set to welcome the cream of the crop, a quota of 40 boats means qualification is essential. The top 30 ranked sailors in the ISAF World Sailing Rankings on 2 February 2015 will be invited. The next ten places plus any declined invitations will be allocated at the ISAF Sailing World Cup Qualification Regatta, for Hyères this is the Princess Sofia Trophy in Palma de Mallorca, Spain.

Venue

Hyères and the palm trees, symbol of the city, is appreciated by competitors and their support. With the International airport within walking distance from the port, reasonably priced accommodation overlooking the venue and the close proximity of the boat parks, it makes the venue one of the most attractive for international sailors.

With a walk that lasts no more than ten minutes from the two farthest boat parks, sailors continue to flock in their numbers to the venue.

Weather

The racing areas offers a wide range of wind conditions, with smooth sea breeze, sometimes Mistral, strong northerly with flat water, or easterly wind bringing waves and rough sea. These changing conditions makes Hyères one of the most testing challenges on the ISAF Sailing World Cup circuit, but cannot be better for preparation of the teams.

Media Information

Located in the heart of the event venue, the media centre enjoys great views over the bay and all the racing areas. This central point allows easy access to sailors and is equipped with fast internet connection.

Free images in high and low resolution for editorial use are available on a dedicated FTP after racing. Press boats are available for accredited journalists and photographers and it is advisable to book in advance at the press centre. Press boats depart the press centre 30 minutes before racing starts.

About

Returning to the London 2012 Olympic waters, ISAF Sailing World Cup Weymouth & Portland is the second European stopover in the series. The regatta was pivotal for competitors as they prepared for London 2012 and it is now back on the map.

Like Hyères, ISAF Sailing World Cup Weymouth and Portland will have a quota of 40 boats so qualification is essential. The top 30 ranked sailors in the ISAF World Sailing Rankings on 27 April 2015 will be invited. The next ten places plus any declined invitations will be allocated at the ISAF Sailing World Cup Qualification Regatta, for Weymouth and Portland this is the Delta Lloyd Regatta.

Venue

Weymouth Bay and Portland Harbour are widely recognised as some of the best sailing waters in Europe. Hosted by the Weymouth and Portland National Sailing Academy with the Jurassic Coast making a spectacular backdrop to the action the facility is capable of hosting over 1,000 sailors at a time.

The extensive boat park space and launching areas are easily accessible for all.

Weather

Inside Portland Harbour the prevailing south-westerly wind comes over Chesil Beach, providing protection and producing relatively flat water and little tide within the harbour wall. Racing action also takes place outside the harbour in Weymouth Bay, it is a relatively sheltered basin with clean winds and small waves. This means that sailing conditions for the venue are almost neutral, so that local knowledge is of no great importance.

Sailors will return to the host venue of the Beijing 2008 Olympic and Paralympic Sailing Competition for ISAF Sailing World Cup Qingdao. Now in its third year Qingdao will invite all ten Olmypic events to the event to be crowned champion and pick up some of the last qualification spots for the ISAF Sailing World Cup Final.

Venue

The Qingdao Olympic Sailing Center and Yinhai International Yacht Club are separated by 3km and will host sailors and officials, providing them with world class facilities during ISAF Sailing World Cup Qingdao. Sailing And The Olympic Games

Sailing was first contested at the 1900 Olympic Games, made its next Olympic appearance in 1908 and has been on every Olympic programme since that year. It is one of the oldest sports on the Olympic programme and its Olympic history is littered with many heroes including some of the sporting world’s great figures.

In the early Olympic Games, sailing was dominated by bigger boats, sometimes with as many as 10-12 sailors, and time handicaps were used to adjudicate the races. Starting from 1924 and increasingly from the 1950s onwards, the trend has been towards smaller and smaller one-design boats with fewer crew members. In the last 20 years, equipment trials have resulted in several new boats reflecting the latest developments in the sport.

The current line up of boats is a mixture between classes with a long Olympic history such as the Finn which was first seen at the Helsinki 1952 Olympic Sailing Competition, and those reflecting the design and technology advances in the sport, such as the 49er and the Nacra 17.

Women have always been allowed to compete in Olympic sailing with men, but in 1988, separate sailing events were introduced exclusively for women. The Olympic sailing programme for Rio 2016 will see men and women compete side by side in the Mixed Multihull event using the Nacra 17 as the equipment.

In effect, sailing made its Olympic debut in Sydney, as it became the first Olympic sport to make a name change. The sport had always been called yachting in the past.

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil will host the 2016 Olympic Sailing Competition.
About ISAF

The world governing body for the sport of sailing was created in Paris in October 1907. It was initially called the International Yacht Racing Union (IYRU) before the name was changed to the International Sailing Federation (ISAF) on 5 August 1996.

The International Sailing Federation is officially recognised by the International Olympic Committee as the governing authority for sailing world-wide. As such, ISAF is responsible for promotion of the sport internationally, managing sailing at the Olympic Games, developing the International Racing Rules and Regulations for all sailing competitions and the training of judges, umpires and other administrators, the development of the sport around the world, as well as representing sailors in all matters concerning the sport.

The name change to the International Sailing Federation in 1996 came with the change to the name of the sport on the Olympic programme from Yachting to Sailing.

In order to promote the development of the sport the ISAF has established several events - including, but not limited to the ISAF World Sailing Championships and ISAF Sailing World Cup (for Olympic equipment), ISAF Youth Sailing World Championship, ISAF Team Racing World Championship, ISAF Match Racing World Championship, ISAF Women’s Match Racing World Championship, ISAF Nations Cup, as well as endorsing and grading the top international match racing and Olympic Class regattas, the results of which go towards sailors’ world rankings, which are administered by ISAF.

ISAF currently consists of 138 member nations who are its principle members, and responsible for the decision making process that governs the sailing world.

There are currently more than 100 ISAF ISAF Class Associations, ranging from small dinghies up to 60 foot ocean racers.

ISAF, from its outset, has worked towards a primary goal to ensure that as many people as possible go sailing.

In 2007 ISAF celebrated its Centenary year by celebrating sailing. The ISAF members, sailing clubs, regatta organizers, sailors and fans were encouraged to organize activities to mark the Centenary with the ‘Sail the World weekend’ dedicated to getting as many people out on the water world-wide as possible. ISAF also launched the ISAF Sailing Hall of Fame in 2007 to acknowledge some of the sports greatest achievers.

ISAF has had seven elected Presidents since 1946 when Sir Ralph Gore took up the role. Current ISAF President, Carlo Croce, who was elected in November 2012, follows in the footsteps of his father Beppe, who held the role from 1969-1986.
